Who is Julia?

Julia means “curly hair”. She was a member of a church in Rome. She might have been the sister or wife of Philologus. Apostle Paul greets her in his letter to Rome. This shows that she must have played a significant part during those times in the church.

Bible Accounts:

Romans 16:15 - Greet Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints who are with them.
